I am Kelly, the designer and creator of the jewelry here at XO. I have always enjoyed creating and designing and over the past few years, I have come to love jewelry design. There are so many unique and exotic components available and the challenge of combining these with an endless variety of colors, shapes, and textures into a single harmonious design is something for which I have developed a passion.

I have always found enjoyment in even the smallest things and I think this excitement and natural curiosity about the world around me is what ignited my desire to create. I love life and I am continuously inspired by everything around me which can easily be seen in my bold and earthy jewelry designs. The tagline for my designs is “jewelry with soul” and this is exactly what I strive to attain with each piece of jewelry I make. I think people need more beauty and inspiration in their lives and I hope to be able to respond to the unique beauty in each individual through my expressive and soulful Jewelry designs.
